The City of Rochester

ROCHESTER is the third city in size in the Empire State, and enjoys the triple distinction of being the "Flour City," the "Flower City," and the "Power City." During the first half-century of its existence the city attained commercial prominence as the center of the milling interests. Latterly, large nurseries have brought to the city a world-wide distinction, and within the past four or five years great developments have been made in utilizing nature's gift—the Genesee River—by adding a storage system, thus affording practically unlimited power for her industries. Thus stimulated, Rochester has made enormous strides, no city in the world having a greater diversity of industries. It has the largest preserving establishment in the world; largest button factory; largest lubricating oil plant. It is the first city in the world in the manufacture of photographic apparatus and optical instruments, and in the output of seeds and nursery stock, having no less than forty-nine nurseries. It is the third city in the United States in the manufacture of clothing, the number of factories being thirty-seven and the annual output about $10,000,000. It is the fourth city in the United States in the manufacture of boots and shoes, having sixty-four factories and an annual output of over $6,000,000. The combined output of the various manufactories exceeds $310,000,000.

Rochester is beautifully located on the Genesee River, five miles from Lake Ontario. The three falls of the Genesee, famed for their grandeur, are within the city limits. The residence portion of the city is handsome and pretentious. From a sanitary point of view the city is in the first rank. A group of magnificent parks afford adequate recreation grounds for the residents.

Rochester is especially favored with beautiful and health-giving resorts within easy access of the city. The lake front is dotted for miles with handsome hotels and charming places devoted to rest and recreation. Besides Charlotte, which enjoys the reputation of being the "Coney Island of the West," there are, within easy reach, Summerville, Windsor Beach, Sea Breeze, Forest Lawn, and Sodus Bay on the east side of the mouth of the Genesee; Long Pond and Manitou Beach, which are located west of the river and on Lake Ontario. There are also a number of delightful resorts on Irondequoit Bay in close proximity to the city.
